CHARACTERISTICS OF A STRONG PASSWORD

The longer the better. Microsoft recommends that passwords be at least 14 characters long to be effective but feel free to make your passwords even longer than that: Each additional character reduces the chances that a hacker will be able to guess your passwords.

Simple is synonymous with insecure. You know better than to make your password "12345" all lowercase letters, or a simple word you can find in the dictionary. Mix it up using symbols, numbers and a combination of capitalized and lower-case letters.

Change is good. Think of your passwords as having shelf life. Change them a few time a year.

Don't make a master key. Do not use the same password for all on line accounts. No matter how good your password is the Cyber Criminals are able to obtain it.

7 Important Email Security Tips

Safe online practices are important to keeping your online identity unadulterated and free from viruses, hackers, and all sorts of Internet-based shenanigans. And the best place to start? Your inbox. Here are some simple yet important security tips you should know in order to keep your email account as secure as possible.

1. Use Separate Email Accounts
2. Create a Unique Password
3. Beware Of Phishing Scams

4. Never Click Links in Emails
5. Do Not Open Unsolicited Attachments
6. Scan for Viruses & Malware
7. Avoid Public Wi-Fi

This article describes instances of each point and the how/why of the suggestion. Worth the read:

The Most Useful Keyboard Shortcuts for the Windows Taskbar

There's no faster way to navigate your computer than with keyboard shortcuts, and Windows continues to add more with each new version. Everything begins on the taskbar and Start menu, though, so it's really handy to use them without ever clicking your mouse. Here are some useful keyboard shortcuts for working with the Windows taskbar.

Windows 10 Quick Tips – Window Positions | Daves Computer Tips

One thing that Microsoft Windows does not manage well is windows. You can move all your windows into positions that work well for you, resize them to your liking and next time Windows opens the windows they'll not be where you left them. It's as if they have a memory lapse or something. Some Desktop windows can be told where you want them to open, but many cannot. One unlikely window this can be done with is the Command Box and this week's Quick Tips article will show you how

How To Change High Contrast Settings | Daves Computer Tips

A woman called me because after a Windows 10 update her screen went, as she put it, black with yellow letters— she could still use it but didn't like it. So, after digging around in the settings a little bit I found out what happened. Somehow, her theme settings got set to a High contrast, so it was just a matter of turning it off.

How To Zoom In Or Out Of A Web Page

My Uncle called me because he said everything on his screen was gone all tiny. His cat had run across his keyboard and somehow managed to reduce or zoom out on his Chrome browser making everything look tiny.

So here is how to Zoom In or Out in your browser. In most cases using the CTRL and either the +(PLUS) key or the -(Minus) key to make things bigger or smaller. But for more precise control...

Clean out junk files in Windows 7, 8.1, and 10

Just like your fridge, a computer's storage space needs to be cleaned out every once in a while to keep things running smoothly. "Temporary" files can get left behind permanently, and big updates to Windows may create many gigabytes of backup files that you never end up using. However, many junk file cleaning apps go too far, such as deleting your web browser cache, which will refill itself anyway over time and whose files help you load websites faster. Let's show you how to tidy things up yourself, using Windows' own built-in tools.

A reader asks: 'Is there any way to get free wireless Internet access? I'm on a tight budget, so I'd like a solution that works both at home and with my mobile phone.' The answer is YES! Read on to learn about free wireless Internet – it's not just in coffee shops anymore...

How to Get Free Wireless Internet

Everyone knows you can get a free wifi connection at your local Starbucks, the public library, and possibly even at your dentist's office. Using free wifi can save you money by helping to limit the amount of data you consume on your smartphone.

But it's not very convenient if you have to run to the nearest coffee shop to check your email or do a quick Google search on a free mobile hotspot. And if you don't have a careless neighbor who's failed to put a password on their wifi, your options for free internet access at home are slim to nil. Unless you know the secret, that is.

Fortunately, there are some wireless Internet access providers that are offering free Internet connections. There are some limitations on the free service, as you might imagine. First, service is not available in all locations. You'll have to check a coverage map to see if your town or neighborhood is in a wifi coverage zone. Second, your free monthly data allowance will be modest. And third, you'll have to purchase a little gadget that costs between $10 and $60 to make the magic work. But if you're willing to abide that one-time fee, and you live in an area where they provide coverage, you really can get free wireless Internet, month after month, at home and around town.

free internet access

FreedomPop is a wireless Internet service provider that offers a free wifi plan. They offer 500 MB of free high speed (4G) wireless internet per month. (You'll get 2 GB free your first month.) Check the FreedomPop coverage map to see if your area is covered.

As I mentioned above, you do need to buy a little gadget that pulls in the cellular data signal from the air, and converts it to a wifi signal that your phone, tablet, laptop or desktop can use. This is a one-time fee, there is no monthly charge to rent the device. Currently the device being offered by FreedomPop is the Netgear Unite Mobile Hotspot. FreedomPop says the device is free, but charges a one-time activation fee of $9.99. However you slice it, it's still $9.99.
